Celebrating EdGE Founding Director Charlie Harrington

Charlie Harrington with his wife, Director of Service Programs Wendy Harrington, and the engraved trail marker honoring Charlie's 17 years of education innovation.

BAR HARBOR, ME -- On June 8th, a crowd of 150 fans came together to celebrate at Charlie Harrington's "graduation party". Charlie, who will be retiring at the end of the month, was the founding director of the EdGE program in 2002. Throughout his tenure, the program has served thousands of Washington County students.

Several speakers lauded his legacy. Gary DeLong, past Executive Director of the Seacoast Mission, spoke of Charlie and his amazing staff "showing Washington County kids that they were loved and that they could be anything they wanted." Former EdGE participant Carolyn Nadeau spoke of the numerous lessons provided by Charlie – including teamwork, problem-solving, and embracing challenges – by noting that as "I look back on those lessons, they have become threads woven into the fabric of who I am. They are present in my life as an adult, as a professional, and a parent."

EdGE staff member, Jen Kearns, and Mission Board Chair, Stacey Smith, offered both kudos and gifts from EdGE staff, EdGE kids, and Seacoast Mission Board and former Board members. One of the highlights of the festive and sunny day was the unveiling of a special trail marker commissioned for the occasion. At the top of the trail leading to the adventure course, a granite sculpture bearing the EdGE logo and the words "Charlie's Challenge" was revealed – marking in perpetuity the new and fitting name for the course and all it represents. Charlie was aided in the ribbon cutting by Connie Greaves Bates. Ed Greaves, for whom the program was named, was the inspiration behind the launch of the EdGE. His death in 2001 meant he did not "see" the program in action, but his legacy lives on in the impact seen daily through the EdGE.

The Mission is also grateful for the many donations made to the EdGE program in honor of Charlie. And we wish him a wonderful next adventure!
